Details:

Dr Nupur Kataria is a Specialist Periodontist on our team at Collins Street Specialist Centre. She completed both her dental degree and her specialist doctorate in periodontics at the University of Adelaide, and she is registered as a specialist in periodontics with the Dental Board of Australia. Periodontists look after the gums and the supporting bone around natural teeth and dental implants. Dr Kataria sees patients on Level 8 of the Manchester Unity Building at 220 Collins Street, Melbourne. To ask about an appointment with her, call (03) 9650 2726.

What are Dr Kataria's qualifications?

Our team page lists two qualifications for Dr Kataria:

BDS (Adel) : Bachelor of Dental Surgery from the University of Adelaide, the general dental degree that every specialist completes first

Doctorate Clinical Dentistry (Perio) (Adel) : a postgraduate clinical doctorate in periodontics, also from the University of Adelaide

Her registration number is DEN0001149992, and her registration includes specialist registration in periodontics.

What does a specialist periodontist do?

A periodontist is a dentist who has gone on to further university training focused on the tissues that support the teeth. That includes the gums, the ligament that attaches each tooth to its socket, and the jaw bone. In everyday terms, a periodontist is the specialist to see when gums bleed, recede or become inflamed, when teeth feel loose, or when there are problems around an implant.

The work of the specialty, as described on our periodontics page, includes treatment of gingivitis and periodontal disease, bone grafting, implant surgery and gum lifts. Your first visit begins with a careful assessment of your gums, so that any treatment is matched to what is found. To find out which of these procedures Dr Kataria provides, please ask our team when you call.

Why might you be referred to a periodontist?

Many people first hear about gum problems from their general dentist or hygienist during a routine clean. If the gum condition looks complex, or has not settled with regular care, your dentist may suggest seeing a specialist. You can also contact us directly. Bringing any recent X-rays and a summary from your dentist helps avoid repeating tests.

How can you confirm her specialist registration?

Anyone can look up Dr Nupur Kataria on the public register kept at ahpra.gov.au . Searching her name shows her registration status and her specialist field.

Getting ready for an appointment

Before you come in, note any symptoms you have noticed, such as bleeding when brushing, bad breath, sensitivity or gaps appearing between teeth, and how long they have been present. Tell us about medical conditions and medicines, including blood thinners, and whether you smoke, as these can affect gum health and healing. Bring your health fund card for claiming on the day.

Other periodontists at Collins Street Specialist Centre

Dr Kataria's specialist periodontist colleagues are Dr Simon Hinckfuss , Dr James van den Berg , Dr Ahmed El Hadidi and Dr Peishan Jiang .

Frequently asked questions

What does a clinical doctorate in periodontics involve?

A clinical doctorate is a postgraduate university program taken after the general dental degree. It combines supervised clinical treatment of patients with gum and implant problems, academic study and research, and leads to eligibility to apply for specialist registration with the Dental Board of Australia.

Can I book with Dr Kataria directly?

Yes. Our published guidance is that you do not need a referral to see our specialists. Call (03) 9650 2726 or use our contact page, and our team will find a suitable time with Dr Kataria.

Will my general dentist stay involved?

Usually, yes. Gum treatment is commonly shared between your specialist and your regular dentist, with check-ups and cleaning continuing in between. With your permission, we write to your dentist after your visit.

How much does gum treatment cost?

Fees depend on the assessment and on the treatment you need, so a written estimate is given after your consultation. Payment plans through Payright, TLC and Supercare are available subject to eligibility; see our payment plans page.
